

Infra Global Awards ESG Outstanding Individual of the Year, North America (2026): The recognition was issued by Infra Global and Molly Whitehouse was named ESG Outstanding Individual of the Year, North America.

Infra Global Awards uses independent international judging panels composed of industry professionals. According to Infra Global Awards, entries are evaluated through a two-stage judging process. Judges initially score submissions against three criteria—innovation, impact, and success—with the highest-scoring entries determining the shortlist. Shortlisted entries are then considered by the judging panel, which reaches a consensus on the overall winner. Judges are subject to a code of conduct and confidentiality requirements.
